Non-disclosure and legal use declaration for the course
"Network-Security", Autumn Semester 2016

– The materials made available in this course (scripts, copies of slides, lecture notes, training and demonstration programs, etc.) are intended for study purposes for students enrolled in the "Network Security" course. Distributing this material to third parties is prohibited.

– Downloading or saving the training and demonstration programs or related data on private media, as well as making them available to third parties, is prohibited.

– The attack and defense methods presented in this course are intended for study and research purposes, and may only be applied in the designated safe learning environment (the laboratory for practical exercises) when supervised by ETH personnel. Application outside this environment requires the prior consent of possibly affected system operators and property owners (see Art. 19 para. 2 b and c BOT) and may be illegal according to the Swiss Criminal Code (see Article 143 and Article 143bis StGB).
